Collect

Almighty God,
whose Son Jesus Christ fasted forty days in the wilderness, and was tempted as we are, yet without sin: give us grace to discipline ourselves in obedience to your Spirit; and, as you know our weakness, so may we know your power to save;
through Jesus Christ your Son our Lord, who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God now and for ever.

Post Communion Prayer

Lord God,
you have renewed us with the living bread
from heaven;
by it you nourish our faith,
increase our hope,
and strengthen our love:
teach us always to hunger for him who is the true and living bread, and enable us to live by every word that proceeds from out of your mouth;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

REFLECTION

LENT

On the wall in my study, I have certain pictures, documents and other items which mean something to me. I have some framed certificates reminding me of the significant stepping stones of my life. I have one or two group photographs of past gatherings with colleagues and friends; and I have the inevitable pictures of loved ones. As I look around the walls, they all transport me to bits of what I am.

I have long cherished a small book I first read whilst at Theological College called "Becoming What I Am". The book is a compilation of short talks given by its author (Fr. Harry Williams) about prayer. I liked the book because it was simple and down to earth, and I have re-read it many times over the years. It talks to me about where I was...and not necessarily as if I was already "there". A young ordinand appreciated that kind of approach...and I still do!

Not without humour, the book used the day to day experiences of life - the important and the trivial - to illustrate great truths about the "spiritual" that are common to us all. It also had a title that caught my eye! By using the word, "becoming" the author pointed to a journey to a future point. But by qualifying it with, "Becoming...what I am" we are reminded of the futility of always looking for some distant peak of spirituality to which we shall all doubtless ascend 'one day'...if we do our homework!

This ought to be the attitude to accompany us into the season of Lent. Do not adopt airs and graces about what you ought to be. Do not enter it with unrealistic expectations of your own application to rigorous routines. Do give yourself one or two simple goals; and do come regularly to church to be with God and his other very fallible people. In other words, enter it with simplicity and openness...and you will not be disappointed at its end. It's a bit like life really!
